

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to processes for reducing the spontaneous mutation frequencies in cells or organisms and for producing such cells and organisms, to cells and/or organisms with reduced spontaneous mutation frequencies and to processes for the generation of expression systems for proteins, for the production of proteins and for the production of fermentation products by using cells with reduced spontaneous mutation frequencies.